

The ACARC operated from the Battleship USS North Carolina this past weekend , June 7-8, in Museum Ships Weekend. A great time was had by all who came over and operated. The bands were not the best but contacts were there but the operators had to worked hard to get a lot of the contacts.

Twenty meters was open all weekend but Forty was slow and the other bands dead. Net results was not quite as good as last year but still OK. A total of 653 contacts were made which included working 19 museum ships.

A big thanks and a job well done goes out to the following 12 operators who came over and operated:
